glowing red eyes of the mechanical Titan dimmed, and the tail, set to drill through Kong's forehead, dropped. But even as he said it, the eye flickered back on, blazing as brightly as before, and the tail swung back. Kong, taking advantage of the slight lull, pushed back, raising his axe, but the machine began overpowering him again.

In the background, Mark saw blue light. Godzilla lifted his head.

Azure light blazed from the Titan's mouth, but it didn't strike Mechagodzilla. Instead it burned by him and hit Kong's axe, which suddenly took on a life of its own, absorbing and then transcending the now-faltering beam.

Kong roared, pushing back on the Mechagodzilla, wrenching free of the machine's grasp, and hewed his weapon straight into his opponent's arm. Sparks flared and red lightning snapped as the weapon sheared off the appendage as if it were a palm frond.

Without pause, the mechanical Titan launched a punch at Kong's face with its remaining arm, but Kong, it seemed, had had enough. He flew into a berserk

- Y una duda, por que no se le da Relativista a Godzilla? pues el tipo tiene consistencia sobre ser Relativista en Reacción y como su Aliento Atomico tiene tales funciones.

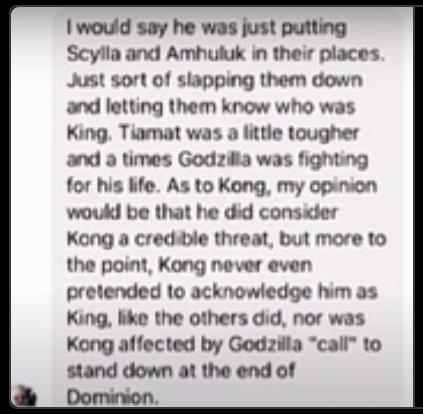
- Y se deberia declarar que Kong no escala 100% a Muto Prime, este mismo ni puede pelear con ella, INCLUSO con seres mas debiles.



I would say he was just putting Scylla and Amhuluk in their places. Just sort of slapping them down and letting them know who was King. Tiamat was a little tougher and a times Godzilla was fighting for his life. As to Kong, my opinion would be that he did consider Kong a credible threat, but more to the point, Kong never even pretended to acknowledge him as King, like the others did, nor was Kong affected by Godzilla "call" to stand down at the end of Dominion.

explained to me, so your guess is as good as mine. I was working from the script. As to the second, the storms began dissipating immediately, but some would have a taken a little while to wind down. As for the third, the impiclication is that Tiamat -- and the Kong, earlier -- killed the other Titans.

Okay great to know. So for the MUTO Prime skull shown, did the Kong or Tiamat kill it?

Adam Wingard weighing in. That's the other way around. Regarding the Dominion question, I had it in mind that Tiamat came along and beat an (aging) Kong. That was my thought while writing the script.

Whether that is canon or not is another question, one I can't answer.

CIVILIAN OPERATIVE FILES
Ancient spirit tablets discovered in the mountain jungles of the Yunnan Province portray a giant winged alpha of the Lepidoptera order. In all of our findings, human civilization is pictographically shown in poses that imply deification of the so-called "Queen of the Monsters", suggesting the creature was once a benign part of the natural order.
